The Battle Against Drought

Man's efforts to control the mighty forces of nature are at the best puny and can be of little avail, but man can harness these forces to some extent and utilize them to his own advantage by working with instead of against nature.

This general principle is understood and is being used in the war against drought and its resultant evil, soil drifting, in the three prairie provinces by the board of agricultural and engineering experts of the federal and provincial governments and universities which has been set up under the Federal Prairie Farms Rehabilitation Act and which is just completing its first year's work of a five year plan.

Comforting words were uttered by Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, the chairman of the Advisory Board created to administer the Act, at a recent conference of the Board and its two subsidiary committees in Regina recently when he announced, as the conclusion of one of the committees, that "soil drifting can be cut down to the absolute minimum." This was supplemented later by a report of the water conservation committee that its work "will increase the visible supply of water for prairie livestock by 30 or 40 times."

Proceeding on the sound basis enunciated in the opening paragraph, and fortifying its efforts by applying the principle of co-operation, the Advisory Board and its subsidiary committees are on the high road to the goal of a measurable success in its efforts to devise and put into effect ways and means to ameliorate the disastrous effects of future drought periods on the western plains provided the organization is not impeded any niggardliness in the provision of the necessary ammunition—money—to bring its work to a successful conclusion.

In this connection it should be pointed out that the Federal government appropriated $750,000 for the first year's work and agreed to vote a million a year for the ensuing four years of the programme. The demands for practical assistance involving monetary outlay are already very substantial. Some of the schemes requested may be practical and some may not. Some may be too expensive for the potential benefits and it remains yet to be demonstrated whether a million a year will be sufficient to carry out the gigantic task, even if the Board's efforts are confined to the most economic and most efficient of the numerous projects which have been and are being put forward.

The Board and its committees appear to be tackling their big problem in a workmanlike manner. From the information available to date it would seem that personal and professional jealousies, if any existed, have relegated to the background and that all the members are working harmoniously with a single eye on the objective to be achieved. This is as it should be and is a matter for sincere approbation.

One of the factors which will largely determine the success or failure of the plans and projects under way or under consideration is the matter of co-operation—co-operation between the governments involved and their servants, and co-operation between the Board and its committees on the one hand and the farmers in whose interests they are working, on the other.

This, it may be remarked, has been recognized and emphasized and this augurs well for beneficial results. In some of the districts which have been established for projective work and experimental undertakings farmers have set up local organizations to work hand in glove with the scientists, and where this is being done, maximum benefits should be obtainable.

In Saskatchewan assurance has been given by the provincial minister of agriculture that, so far as his government is concerned, there will be co-operation with the Federal organization in the administration and operations of the new provincial Land Utilization Act which sets up machinery to arrange for evacuation of land unfit for farming and which perhaps never should have been devoted to grain growing, and for its use for grazing purposes together with plans for improvement of such lands in districts where circumstances appear warranted.

With the impetus of several years of soil drifting and ruined crops behind them as a driving force, farmers are turning to the Board and its committees with open arms. This is demonstrated by the large number of applications received by the water conservation committee alone. Requests for dams and dugouts and irrigation projects, mostly small individual schemes, but including a scattering of larger community projects have been received by the committee to the number of 4,615 in the three provinces. From Saskatchewan points the committee has received requests for 840 small schemes and 40 large projects.

A considerable number of small projects have already been completed and the beneficial effect of their existence will be reaped for the first time with the run-off of water in the spring of 1936.

Reference might be made to other branches of work being developed and proceeded with by other committees, such as plans for tree planting, examination of cultural methods, consideration of moisture conservation under varying soil conditions, but space prohibits more than passing notice at this time. Suffice it to say that all these angles are being carefully studied by the several committees in charge.

The whole scheme is by far the most ambitious attempt yet made to solve the greatest problem confronting agriculture in the west. The best trained minds available are at work on it and there is every reason to believe that with the co-operation already referred to a substantial measure of success will be achieved.

Gifts Still Arriving

Jubilee presents still continue to reach the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace. The latest to arrive, reports the News of the World, is a magnificent silver shield from a group of Chinese bankers, which bears in two vertical columns an inscription recording the occasion of the gift, and expressing wishes for "long life in perpetuity" for Their Majesties.

It is said that whooping cough is the most contagious of all childhood diseases.

Railway Problems

Dr. Tory Tells How Mistakes Have Been Made

The taking over of railroads and not taking over the land settlement schemes which had paralleled them was one mistake in Canada's handling of the railway problem, Dr. H. M. Tory, Canadian educationist and scientist, told the Canadian Club in Vancouver.

"Had we spent half the money we have spent on railways deficits in promoting national land settlement schemes, by now the railroads would have been self-supporting," he said.

Dr. Tory defended the building of railroads, but regretted the way it was done, and utilized them to his own advantage by working with instead of against nature.

"The result is that there are railroads where they are not wanted and places that want roads have not got them."

The second difficulty is, when we started road building we paralleled our roads with land settlement schemes, so that the roads became pioneers of settlement. Then when we found ourselves in deep water we took over the roads and abandoned the land settlement plans."

Radium For Ontario Government

Receive Delivery Of Three And A Half Grams Of Great Bear Lake Product

Delivery of three and a half grams of radium, produced in the Great Bear Lake district, has been made to the Ontario government for use in Toronto General hospital cancer clinic, Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, minister of health, announced recently.

The radium replaces the same quantity the government has been renting from New York. The price paid for the Canadian element was $42,800 a gram.

In March, 1934, the previous government rented from a New York firm four grams of radium for the Toronto hospital "bombed." At the end of the first year the government exercised its option to buy one-half gram. Since last March the hospital continued to hold three and a half grams on a rental basis, but next March that amount will be returned to New York and replaced by the Canadian supply.

Ambrose Small Case

Ontario Government To Reopen Investigation Into Mystery

The Ontario government will reopen investigation into the disappearance of Ambrose J. Small, Toronto theatre magnate, in 1919, it was learned recently. Attorney-General Roebuck, it was reported, communicated from Ottawa with Patrick Sullivan, investigator acting on behalf of Small, and told him Senior Solicitor W. B. Common would interview him and the Misses Small to ascertain what evidence they have.

Sullivan declared his evidence will bring light on several angles of the case, and will include letters sent to the Misses Small by friends of Mrs. Small, indicating Small's disappearance was expected in some quarters.

Hold Up Motorist On Trans-Canada Highway Near Rennie, Manitoba

To be held up by a big drove of caribou crossing the Trans-Canada highway near Rennie, was the experience of a motorist going to Kenora from Winnipeg. He estimated there were about two hundred and fifty animals in the herd on their way south. They appeared to be in first class condition.

Caribou used to be fairly numerous in the district 30 or 40 years ago, but since then only a occasional ones have been met with.

Zuyder Zee has almost gone, and it has already changed its name. It is now the Yssel Meer, and the mighty dyke and the reinforcing pumps are effacing the memory of the old inland sea of Holland.

Much has still to be done before the Zee is a mere outlet for the rivers that flowed into it, controlled by huge sluices, but already an area which five years ago was under water has been sufficiently cleared to grow crops and support two villages built on it.

All you have to do is to convince yourself that women are prettier now than in strawberries than in milk.

Food For Thought

Germany Building Up War Machine Greater Than Kaiser's

Cabling from Berlin, Frederick T. Birchall, English-born correspondent of the New York Times, and abest of journalistic observers in Europe, writes of the "sensation among all classes of the population" caused by the latest act of the German Government. The act, briefly, summoned to the colors all classes of 1913 and 1916.

Watching Mussolini in Ethiopia, the world may well give a thought to th's.

For what it means, as Birchall points out, is that Germany's male population is being wrought into a huge military machine; a war machine greater than anything ever possessed by the Kaiser.

Successively, as they reach years of usefulness, the millions of the Reich are to be catalogued and classified for such purposes as the state may determine. In addition to the actual standing army and reserve, there will exist for Germany in the future another army of millions when on the outbreak of war or in any other emergency can become a military reality. It is the beginning of that of system of a nation in arms upon which Nazi ideology dwells so much.

This, seventeen years after the Armistice, is a devastating thing. Just recently we had France, the greatest military nation in the world, proclaiming that her army now is inferior to that of Germany; and meanwhile Germany goes on building a mighty air force, fashioning warships and submarines.

In Ethiopia are the legions of Italy. In the East exists the new threat of a mighty Japanese empire carved out of North China. But these things, arreasting as they are, and perilous, pale before what goes on to-day beyond the Rhine.

New Zealand Government Makes Move To Restore Wages

New Zealand's Labor government was sworn into office. Prime Minister Michael J. Savage said its first task would be to improve the lot of the unemployed. The next move would be to restore the wage levels prevailing in industry and the civil service before economy cuts were introduced by the National government in 1931.

The prime minister said he intended to get in touch with those who control the Dominion's financial system, including the reserve bank, in order to make available the country's real resources for national development.

"We shall have to find the resources," he declared. "We shall not follow the old ideas of continuously borrowing abroad and adding to the public debt."

W. H. T. Armstrong, minister of labor, said the cabinet intended to introduce a statutory minimum wage for both men and women, leaving an arbitration court to determine rates above the level.

Women Flyers

Every Bit As Capable As Men, Says C.B.C. Instructor

Harold Wilson, of the Aero Club of British Columbia, rated one of Canada's leading instructors, differs with an opinion attributed to Kenneth Main, Toronto Flying club instructor, that women make poor airplane pilots.

"Maybe eastern girls are different but we have always found that other things being equal, women who take up flying for sport are every bit as capable as the men," Mr. Wilson said.

"It must be borne in mind, however, that the industry offers little future at present for lady pilots other than for their own satisfaction."

The instructor said women suffer because of poor judgment of distance and speed.

Zuyder Zee Renamed

Holland's Inland Sea

Zuyder Zee has almost gone, and it has already changed its name. It is now the Yssel Meer, and the mighty dyke and the reinforcing pumps are effacing the memory of the old inland sea of Holland.

Much has still to be done before the Zee is a mere outlet for the rivers that flowed into it, controlled by huge sluices, but already an area which five years ago was under water has been sufficiently cleared to grow crops and support two villages built on it.

All you have to do is to convince yourself that women are prettier now than in strawberries than in milk.

The Oldest Horse

Lived To Age Of Sixty Two According To Records

According to R. A. Brown, secretary of the National Horse Association, the oldest horse of which we have a reliable record is old Billy, who died in Cheshire 100 years ago at the age of 62. His skull is said to be preserved at Manchester University. Another famous veteran was Paramatta, an Australian horse, who was 53 when he died in 1874. Tommy, a Welsh pony, made regular rounds of the villages with a fruit hawker until he died at 52. Among four-legged "old soldiers" a Crimean War pack-horse lived to 49. And Mick, who was foaled in 1888, and was a cab-horse in Hull for 25 years, was still alive a year or so ago.

Employment Increases

But Cost Of Relief Seems To Be Unchanged

Employment in Canada has reached the highest level since December, 1930, but relief costs have not moved correspondingly downward and there are still more than 1,000,000 Canadians in receipt of direct unemployment relief, according to an estimate of current trends released by the Canadian welfare council.

Extensive public works have contributed to the favorable employment trend in recent months, the welfare council asserts, while these in turn have stimulated activity in private business.

From the 1935 peak of 1,230,000 persons on direct relief last February, the number decreased to 1,100,000 estimated in the late autumn reports received by the council from relief departments and social agencies in the nine provinces. This compares with 1,150,000 estimated at this time last year, a drop of approximately 50,000.

An attempted comparison of these figures must, however, take into account, the council said, the fact that some 90,600 persons on relief last year in the drouth areas of Saskatchewan have been removed from relief lists.

Consequently it seems possible that there has been a more disturbing enlargement of the socially dependent in urban and industrial centres within recent months than a first glance would indicate. This, together with mounting costs, suggests that the unemployment and unemployment relief problem has not lost but rather increased in seriousness in the past 12 months. The wider introduction of cash relief in many centres, without prior reorganization or adequate investigation and supervision services, appears to have added to the costs and the numbers on relief in certain areas."

FLEMING'S FOLLY

BY
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

Here is an absorbing and exciting story of a fight against stubborn pre-judice and a bitter personal malignancy—of a girl and a man battling ridicule, sabotage, bullets, and treachery which would turn them against each other.

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the intent of forming an irrigation company.

Roper Kilgo, the boss of the Rawhides and nearby ranges, who seemed to approve the plan, but was really opposed to it, sent his son Otto, a dexterous mining engineer, whom Kilgo knew would be called upon to give his expert opinion in favor of the scheme, to reverse his earlier endorsement, and decline the irrigation in Boone County. So far as Hamilton's plan was concerned, was only a new-fangled way to waste money.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Buzz Hamilton uttered a derisive laugh. "Tryin' to threaten us into it now, eh? Save your breath. We don't scare so easy."

"That's right, Link. Yuh lost, so why squawk about it?" calmly inquired Roper.

Already the ranchers were moving slowly toward the street door of the Trailend Hotel, talking in low tones. Many were disgruntled because, having been almost won over, or having felt they would be forced into the scheme, they now were at a loss to account for the sudden change in temper.

He would have to act fast! "Men, I still believe in waterin' land this much, that I'm going into it myself. I know some folks are going to back me on it, and there'll be others if you can see just how much the thing can do for you."

"Yeah, I'd put us on the poor-farm," drawled Matt Benson.

He ignored this, seeking Otto Pieper. "You claim to believe in progress. As head of the bank you're in a position to help any worthwhile movement. Will you support a dam on Silver Creek?"

They paused to hear Pieper's decision. His sallow face went paler and he twicled his shoulders uncomfortably. Conscious of its importance, he hesitated, scratching his pointed chin.

"Well, uh—I'm a great believer in progress, sure. Just the same," Otto pleaded weakly, "if Soak Torney knows all about irrigation like you told us yourself, and he ain't in favor of our riskin' forty to sixty thousand—uh, I couldn't say right off what I'd do about loans, Link."

There was a rustle of endorsement of this stand. "I'm not asking whether you'll give me anything, Otto. I just want to know if you'll loan money against my spread, or stock, or whatever security I offer."

"Well, that depends. Don't reckon I'd treat yuh much different than before."

He sought Sam Bass, who ran cows on a narrow strip of range a short distance from the Star Loop. More than once he had expressed the belief that "water's what we need, an' water's what we oughta get!"

"How about you, Sam? You told me just the other day you were sure this scheme would do wonders. Want to come in with me on it?"

Bass was rolling a cigarette as the invitation came. His fingers began to shake so that he was forced to use both hands. "D-don't worry, think I'd go agin expert advice, Link."

"Yuh don't need to ask me. My answer is no," Orrey Jackson stated flatly, and headed for the door.

In another moment the hotel lobby would be empty. There was just one last appeal to be made, but perhaps it would turn the tide for the irrigation plan. He beckoned to Honest John Mulrooney, one of his very best friends, standing beside Marty Bush, who also was a tried-and-true friend. "I'm tellin' you somebody reached Torney, forced him to change his mind. How about going in with me in spite of everything? Mulrooney, what do you say?"

Honest John almost swallowed his quid of tobacco. He squinted sharply at Bush as if seeking an excuse, sighed, and yielded. "Shore," he said without enthusiasm. "I'll back yuh, Link, for anything yuh say. I'm in this or any other scheme—and you can tell that to anybody yuh meet!"

Was the tide turning? A few men had paused interestingly, impressed.

"How about you, Marty?" Link asked quickly.

Bush fingered the buckle of his belt. "What John said goes for me too."

New hope sprang alive to warm his veins, and the Star Loop owner grinned. "Aw, the meeting's over, I reckon." Jackpot Mell called loudly just as Fleming was about to follow his brief advantage. "Everybody step over to the Half Moon. Drinks are on the house!"

At once there was a shuffling of booted feet and as one man the crowd surged toward the door. Just then, however, a slight, dark-haired girl pushed and worked her way forward.

"Wait, please!" she cried. "I believe like Mr. Fleming that someone persuaded Soak Torney to say what he did. Why, Torney wrote me a letter in which he said irrigation would be wonderful, that it was the only hope of ranchers now the foot-hills are going to be barbed up. Please, everyone, won't you wait?"

Frowning, the men turned about. As for Link, his startlement quickly turned to a puzzled half-admiring look. He recalled now having noticed the girls' piquant oval face at the rear fringe of the crowd while he had been looking. But in his eager concentration at that time he had forgotten her.

Who was she? Her eyes were large and dark, her features regular. The close-fitting maroon hat could not prevent wisps of chestnut hair from peeping furiously forth. Fleming thought she would be nineteen or twenty, stately but not distant of manner, and girlishly lovely in the full bloom of healthful youth.

She must have come, he reflected, on the Flagstaff-to-Rawhide stage, for a while ago he had seen it stop before the hotel, then roll, ponderously away.

The men were staring at her. "Why are you blind?" she reproached exuberantly. "Don't you see that Mr. Fleming would not have asked this Torney to give his opinion if he were not sure what it would be?" Why, he wouldn't even have—"

"You ain't got any call to bust in here!" Buzz interrupted harshly.

The girl ignored him. I'm Helen Hamilton of the Triple H—most of you men know me. I've been east the last two years; and I've seen irrigation there. I know it will work. Why, it's the only salvation for ranchers, our only hope! I've studied it as much as I could. Yes, and as I told you, I had a letter from Mr. Torney. He said it was wonderful, that the Triple H would benefit—"

"Helen!" her brother snapped angrily. "Tell yuh—"

"But we've got to go into it!" Panting and with her face flushed and eyes glistening with enthusiasm, she turned to Link. "Mr. Fleming, our spread will join in this thing. There!" she exclaimed, smiling. "You've got another lined up. Who else will come in?"

Link had climbed down from his chair. A knot of men watched interestedly as Buzz, working nearer, grasped the girl's arm. "You can't promise our spread'll go into any loose scheme like that! I'm manager there, and—"

"But I tell you we must," she pleaded. "If Torney said it was a good thing, and Mr. Fleming believes it, then I believe it too!"

"Soak" changed his mind, didn't he?"

Link hesitated, not wanting to cause friction between brother and sister. "Maybe we'd better talk this later on," he said in a low tone.

Hamilton heard him. "You keep out of it, savvy? I don't need you, help runnin' my spread!"

"But irrigation is a good thing, Buzz, I know it is. Can't you see, someone certainly made Torney afraid to tell what he really thinks?" It was in his manner, in his face! Anyhow," she declared stanchly, "I own half the Triple H, and I'm going to see that we go in with Mr. Fleming. We've got to do something, Buzz, or we'll be bankrupt in a year or two. And in our letters back and forth—"

"Letters!" His truculence heightened.

"Yes. You see, we've discussed this a good deal. Mr. Fleming wrote Father shortly after we got to Otoe. When Father died, I answered. He said you weren't much impressed with the idea, in fact were against it. That's why I've tried to explain it to you, Buzz, when I wrote you."

Anger overspread his flushed face. "Darn you, Fleming, so yuh played underhand on this, eh? Who told yuh to write my sister? Yuh never mentioned it to me!"

"Because I asked him not to, Buzz. I wanted to explain it to you myself."

Out of the corner of his eye Link saw Buster Townsend edge nearer as if fearful of danger threatened his employee. It was plain that young Hamilton, much the worse for drinking before the ranchers had assembled, was in a trouble-making frame of mind. At Helen's words he stiffened and for the moment was utterly nonplussed. Anger welled hotter in the man and he seemed to be calculating what move to make next.

Roper Kilgo wore a saccharine peace-making smile across his round face as he approached and bowed gallantly. "Shore glad to see yuh, Helen! Been lookin' forward to this for a long time. How about ridin' out to the spread with yuh? Reckon we got plenty to talk over we don't care about other folks hearin'!"

Doctor At Chesterfield Inlet Says He Is Not Dead

Dr. L. D. Livingston, in charge of the hospital at Chesterfield Inlet, N.W.T., 400 miles north of Churchill, wants it known he is very much alive. While travelling in Greenland, Reginald Orcutt, member of the New York Explorers' Club, was told by Eskimos the physician was dead. On returning to Copenhagen, Mr. Orcutt wrote for particulars to a Saskatoon newspaperman. The matter was referred to the Canadian Press, and a message was sent to Chesterfield Inlet through the radio department at Ottawa. Replying personally, Dr. Livingston said: "If I dead, I don't know enough to lie down."

But I tell you we must," she pleaded. "If Torney said it was a good thing, and Mr. Fleming believes it, then I believe it too!"

Bank of Montreal's Strong Position

At the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, held at the Head Office December 2, a large and representative gathering of shareholders expressed their unanimous approval of the statement and report of the directors for the fiscal year ending October 31.

The balance sheet showed that the total assets amounted to $792,800,000, compared with $759,100,000 a year ago.

Profits, after deducting Dominion and Provincial Government taxes, amounted to $3,005,212 as compared with $2,304,369 in 1934—a decrease of $109,000, over half of which is due to the increase in Dominion and Provincial taxes.

Sir Charles Gordon, president, in his address, said he was sorry interest on bank deposits was cut from three to two per cent. This, he said, was rendered necessary by the pressure of the Government and the Central Bank for lower rates on Government loans.

"These low rates," he explained, "have resulted in a drastic cutting down of the earnings of the chartered banks, which have been forced to reduce their rates to depositors. Based on the results of the Bank of Montreal, it means that the depositors in all Canadian banks are receiving some $17,000,000 less per annum than they did when the rate was 3%: in a sense this reduction may be regarded as a form of concealed taxation. I think that the sooner the public is educated to these facts, the better. Every man and woman should realize that no matter whether taxes are paid directly or not, no citizen is getting his share of the cost of government."

General Manager's Address

Mr. Jackson Dodds, joint general manager, in explaining the various items in the Bank's statement, referred to the failure of the lowering of interest rates by the country to stimulate borrowing for productive and constructive purposes, remarking: "Lenders naturally shortened the terms of their commitments. They are willing to risk long term investments at lower rates in the face of experiments of one kind and another, whether monetary, economic or socialistic. Until confidence is inspired by the adoption and carrying out of sound policies, the balancing of the budget will be affected and by the reduction of taxes, long term investments will be postponed and business recovery retarded."

"Taxation," he proceeded, "is primarily intended to collect state and national essential contributions. That we have drifted a long way from the original intention is becoming more and more apparent. The burden of taxation imposed by our numerous spending bodies has gone to the point where it consumes capital resources, saps energy and enterprise, discourages industry, production and construction, and thereby increases unemployment. The saving bank and pension fund are being beaten by the cost of living. In a sense, the source of taxation will ultimately be dried up."

A Great Gentleman

American Writer Has High Regard For Baron Tweedsmuir

When I first knew him, he was plain John Buchan, writer of the best Scotch novels since Robert Louis Stevenson.

Then, in 1918, he was Col. John Buchan of the British wartime press bureau, shrewd, kindly, and deft, handling a bunch of rampaging American correspondents as gently as though they were so many small eggs.

When he became Sir John Buchan, he was cast, and loved the people with whom it is thy portion to live with a sincere affection. Be not dissatisfied with thy present lot, or shrink from the future. A godly man once said,

"I love best to have each thing in its season, doing without it at all other times. I have never got over my surprise that I should have been born into the most estimable place in the world, and in the very nick of time too."

United Church Notes

The annual Sunday school Christmas treat held on Friday, December 27th, was well patronized by scholars young and old, and provided the opportunity for one and all to make merry and be glad which they did very heartily. The wise man in the book of Proverbs says "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine". Physic in this form is very pleasant to take and quite often works wonderful cures, especially upon the depressed. Several loads of young merry makers were taken for sleigh rides round about town by Mr. Arthur Peterson, while for those who were not disposed to brave the outward elements well organized games were arranged in the church building under the guidance of Mr. J. S. Reeds, assisted by Mr. Kemp, and there was one continuous round of joyous activity for about three full hours. During this time there were two sittings for supper, when the feast of good things provided quickly disappeared in satisfying appetites sharpened by vigorous exercise. Following the supper, Christmas hymns and carols were sung, which fittingly expressed the "joy brought to the world" by the Babe of Bethlehem. Bags of candy, nuts, etc., were distributed at the close, and the thanks of all are due to those who worked hard and gave much to make such ample provision for this happy Christmas festive occasion. The scholars handed in gifts amounting to $6 which will be sent to the Protestant Children's Home in Edmonton.

The treasurer has received several contributions during the last few weeks which have brought the balancing of the budget well within sight. Some $150 is still required, and it is hoped that this amount will be forthcoming during the next week or two in time for the annual meeting which is usually held about the middle of January. Friends of the church, who have not yet done so, are invited to send in their freewill gifts, so that there may be no deficit when the books are closed.

Following the service in the Irma church next Sunday evening, January 5th, the Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered. Members are urged to be present, and the fellowship of the Lord's table is open to any who feel drawn to respond to His invitation. "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him and with me". There is no better way of meeting the challenge of a New Year.

The pastor extends to one and all the sincere hope that the New Year may bring you very many blessings. A general meeting of the Irma Branch of the Canadian Legion and of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be held in Hedley's Hall at 3 p.m. on January 11th. A full attendance of all members is requested.

Mr. Richard Forest who operated the Irma creamery a few years ago, was a visitor in town last Monday and Tuesday on business. Dick has been working in the Creamery at Holden during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Knudson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Knudson, spent Christmas in Edmonton with Melvin Knudson, who had recovered from his illness sufficiently to leave the hospital.

A large crowd attended the wedding dance of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lukens Friday night, December 27th, at Educational Point. Coulterman's orchestra dispensed their usual snappy music while Mr. Herbert Larson acted the efficient floor manager.

The New Year's Eve novelty dance put on by the Irma Rebekah Lodge was a decided success in every way. A large crowd of dancers and friends of the Rebekahs availed themselves of the opportunity to join in the festivities ushering in the New Year. Williamson's orchestra of Fabian supplied the music and the members of the lodge contributed and served a delicious lunch at midnight. The balloon dance prize was won by Miss Hazel Congdon and her brother Sam. The hall was artistically decorated for the occasion.

The Irma public school put on their annual Christmas concert in Kiefer's hall on the evening of December 23. The stage and tree were beautifully decorated and the program showed that a lot of real hard work had been done in training such a number. The costumes worn by these young actors looked lovely, the parents of the school children and others co-operating with Miss Taylor, the teacher, in supplying the material and making them. At the close of the concert Santa Claus appeared and distributed gifts and treats to all the children of the district.

MARRIAGES

LUKENS—KITCHEN

A very pretty wedding took place at high noon in St. Mark's church, at Hardisty, on December 25th, when Brenda, second daughter of Mr. W. Kitchen and the late Mrs. Kitchen, of Hardisty, was united in marriage to Francis James, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Lukens of Irma.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohenstein's wedding march, was charming in pale blue satin-crepe with white accessories and veil and carried a bouquet of narcissus, pink and white carnations and lily of the valley.

The bride was preceded by the bridesmaid, Miss Kathleen Kitchen, sister of the bride, who looked lovely in pale green satin-crepe with green and silver accessories, and carried a bouquet of narcissus, pink carnations and lily of the valley.

The bride was followed by a dainty wee flower girl, Lovina Joan Kitchen, niece of the bride, who was dressed in pink and white and carried a basket of pink carnations and lily of the valley.

The groom was attended by Mr. Wm. Kitchen, brother of the bride.

During the signing of the register the Misses Kathleen Kitchen—Jean Taylor sang "I Love You Truly". After the ceremony conducted by the Rev. Mr. Love, a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives at the home of Mrs. W. Kitchen. The table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The room was beautifully decorated with bells and red and green streamers. The toast to the bride and groom was proposed by Mr. F. C. Lukens, father of the groom and was replied to by Mr. W. Kitchen.

Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by this popular couple. Mr. and Mrs. Lukens will make their home north of Irma.

Best wishes for their future happiness are extended this young couple by many Irma friends.

FLEMING—DEW

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United church on Friday morning, December 20th, when Muriel Peggy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dew of Mannville, and Archiebald, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Fleming of Irma, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony by Rev. E. F. Kemp. The ceremony was performed in the presence of Mrs. and Miss Florence Dew, mother and sister of the bride, and Mr. N. S. Johnson of Irma, the last two signing the register as witnesses.

Best wishes for a long and happy married life are extended to this popular young couple who will make their home on the groom's farm north of Irma.

IRMA 6 — WAINWRIGHT 4

Irma and Wainwright hockey teams met for a league game on Irma ice on Saturday evening, December 28th. According to schedule, the Tofield team should have played in Irma on that date but owing to so many of the boys having to work that evening the above change in the schedule was made.

The game was clean and fairly close in the first period. F. Maguire scoring two for Irma, both on passes from R. Maguire.

R. Maguire drew a light penalty, the only one of the period.

Soon after the opening of the second period the Irma boys chalked up two more, both by Lawson, one on a pass from Morrison and one unassisted. At this stage Wainwright put on more steam and were successful in bagging two by Kee from R. Tory and S. Worton from Ganderton. Before the end of the period Morrison scored number five for Irma unassisted. R. Tory was recalled twice in this period.

The third period opened fast and furious with Wainwright determined to even the score. The result was two goals by Worton assisted by Ganderton in both events. R. Maguire assisted by brother Frank secured the sixth and last goal for the evening, making the final score 6-4 in favor of Irma. Mitchell in the last period drew two penalties. Irma did well to gain this victory in view of the fact that three of their leading players did not take part, Geo. Fischer being away, R. L. Martin suffering from the effects of a fall and J. Crocker also indisposed.

The line-up was as follows: Wainwright: B. Maguire, P. Stuart, R. Tory, S. Worton, Dupre, Ganderton, K. Tory, Kee and Tolmie; Irma: Yoe-man, Mitchell, Lawson, C. Smallwood, J. Morrison, G. Sweenie, F. Maguire, R. Maguire and M. Knudson; referee, R. L. Penfield.

IRMA 6 — HUGHENDEN 4

An exciting exhibition hockey game was played in Irma on December 19.

between Irma and Hughenden. Hughenden took the lead in the first period by scoring two goals, the first one by Miles and the second by Owre. A scrap developed in this period between F. Maguire and O. Hendricks which provided a little variety but as this was against the hockey rules it was soon stopped by referee Penfield and both players penalized.

Shortly after the opening of the second period Miles and Owre again scored one each but by this time the Irma lad had found their stride and proceeded to make up for lost time by Morrison netted another one and soon followed it with another one by Sweenie on a lone play before the second period closed.

At the opening of the third period Irma put on five forwards and staged a rally that counted them four more goals which were credited as follows: Lawson from Morrison, F. Maguire from Martin, from R. Maguire and S. Maguire from Lawson.

This ended the game with Irma counting six and Hughenden four.

Line-ups: Hughenden—K. Rodin, S. Martineau, R. Bowen, I. Owre, J. Miles, A. McDevitt, K. Irish, B. Whitehead and O. Hendricks; Irma—Yoe-man, Mundie, Crocker, Knudson, Martin, F. Maguire, R. Maguire, Lawson, Morrison and Sweenie.
